They were 14, seventh grade, and—well, they were mostly more intelligent than most years seniors! only a measly little points. Series Of Minor Auto Accidents Around South Bay

A number of highway accidents of minor importance as to injuries but several of them resulting in considerable damage to the cars involved took place in the South Bay area this last week.

Three cars were involved in an accident on State Road 89 adjacent to the South Bay Sugar Plantation, Saturday evening, about dusk. It was thought at first that several of the occupants of the cars were injured but they got up and walked away without difficulty once the shock had worn off. Chief of Police R. C. White and the highway patrol investigated the accident.

A negro woman driver who evidently was just learning to drive lost control of her car and very nearly injured a group of pedestrians on the curve west of South Bay at the Davis corner Sunday.

Two trucks collided on Highway 27 in front of the C. W. Mingo last week during a light rainfall, the accident partly being due to the wet pavement it was reported.

The same afternoon about 13 miles south of South Bay on the Miami Highway a car skidded on the highway in passing another vehicle and turned over in the roadside ditch, almost demolishing the car but not injuring the driver who was alone at the time. His name was not learned.

One of the farm trucks belonging to Perry Register was turned over in the roadside ditch at the junction of North East Canal Street and State Road 89 Sunday morning. The negro driver stated that he had pulled up the incline and had to stop for passing traffic and that the truck rolled back down the incline and went into the ditch. The Lamoureux wrecker pulled the truck out and righted it. It was not damaged.

Tag Day To Be Observed This Coming Saturday

Mrs. W. C. Allen announces that Tag Day for the Crippled Children's Hospital which will have been put on last Saturday was postponed to Saturday, Nov. 19 on account of American Legion and other affairs which crowded last week.

The Junior American Legion Auxiliary members are preparing the tags this week and will be ready for Saturday. The funds obtained will be used to purchase and install a bed at the new Crippled Children's Hospital at Coral Gables.

Lauderdale, is convalescent and out of the hospital after his recent hospitalization and that he plans to be with the Church of Latter Day Saints at the American Legion Hall on November 28. All Mormons in the Everglades are cordially invited to attend this and regular Sunday services at the Belle Glade American Legion Hall, the stated.

Three visiting elders, Bert Shumway, Andrew Caras and Elder David, traveling elders supervising the South Florida District were guest speakers at the services last Sunday. A collection was taken at the evening service to purchase Sunday School Song books. Lesson leaflets for the year have already been ordered.

4-H Clubs Meet

The South Bay 4-H Clubs met at the school Tuesday. Assistant Agent John Causy was in charge of the boys program and illustrated his talk with a film. The girls club was under direction of Assistant Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Mildred Michael. At a short business session they decided to support the county recommendation to meet each week instead of bi-monthly.

Mrs. Michael will continue to be in charge on the first and third Tuesdays of each month which will be a business meeting and the other a work session.

Mrs. Laura Willis, local leader, will be in charge on alternate weeks, the second and fourth Tuesdays in each month. They then adjourned to the cafeteria and divided into two groups. One table continued work at their regular sewing under direction of Mrs. Willis. The second table were engaged in painting pie plate wall plaques.

Next week they will finish the painting and sewing projects now under way.

Football Banquet For Home To Be Staged At High School Cafeteria

It has been the custom for a number of years for the Lions club to extend a season end banquet to the Golden Ram team, but this year that function has been cut off the program. In its place, the Belle Glade schools will arrange for such a banquet to be given at the Cafeteria, for the various school groups who have had a part in the football season work, it being strictly an invitation affair for the school people alone.

New York Operator Joins In Corn Deal In The Everglades

Donald Coon, who in season operates large corn projects in the Hudson valley of New York and in parts of Virginia, has arrived in Belle Glade, and has become interested in the sweet corn deal here.

Mr. Coon has leased a half section of land from the Rutledge estate and has a crop coming on. His produce will be sent to an established market which he has been supplying for years past.

Mr. Coon finds corn culture here in the Glades very different than in the north, but being an experienced grower has shown much aptitude for the requirements here. Mr. Coon is residing in Northmore.

Cineast Chatter

Everyone who knows the first thing about baseball remembers Monty Stratton, the tall, rangy Texas kid with the easy grin who became a hero to millions. Well, now his story is done on the screen and will be shown at the Hugo Theatre Sunday night, with James Stewart playing Monty and June Allyson his lovely wife and a cast of the best players in Hollywood. The picture comes to you under the title "The Stratton Story." Here is a love story that can truly be labeled as tops among all romances June Allyson is at her finest in this role, playing the part of a wife who stuck to her husband through all odds, even when the romance was almost broken up. Jimmy Stewart never put more into a part than his part in this delightful story. His part fits him like a glove, and he has been referred to as "the spirit" image of Monty. Frank Morgan is his old love self, warning his way right into your heart with his clever portrayal of the character he depicts.

Yes, you'll love every inch of "The Stratton Story," of that I'm sure.

See you at the Movies—Mal.

discuss, which was, "I cannot see." In his remarks he stated, "I came over from Tampa to Belle Glade on a bus, and for the first time I saw the beauties and the potentialities of the Great Everglades section, sure an eye opener to you. You potentialities in view of the Flood control project, places you in the first of all the nation. You have riches unestimable, your present production being but a drop to what can be expected in the future.

You people know your farming but along with that business, you have a great opportunity for industrial and cattle to industry and development. You are also missing a great opportunity of additional income in not going after the tourist trade. A large majority of the winter tourists come from rural regions and they are not happy in the big cities where they now congregate. Give them something worthwhile in the rural small towns and the cities will be deserted, and you will be picking up those golden tourist dollars.

You should have a four-lane highway from Ft. Myers to West Palm Beach and then you could be finding plenty of traffic and trade developing in your localities. Put a scenic drive along your lake side and you would have a world attraction equal to the best. Tourist dollars are more easily picked up and show a greater profit than digging your wealth from the soil.

If we can put on a concrete program to the world what we really have in Florida, this state will become the Mecca of all the tourist states. Riches from this source building up our state and aid in our economic program. Plug for Florida. With a decade Belle Glade can develop into a city of 50,000 population.

Latest statistics on International Lionfish shows that 18,000 lionfish were taken in a membership of 39,400, located on six continents and 26 different nations.

Biologists state that a single pair of black bass can reproduce enough young to adequately stock 36,000 acres of water; while a pair of brown trout can produce enough to stock 17,000 acres. More than 40 million game fish were caught in Florida fresh waters last year.

With the placing of 200 herd of deer in Florida each of the next five years, according to the Game Commission, will provide an ample supply for the state.

There was a record breaking crowd which witnessed the Belle Glade-Lake Worth game at Memorial Field, Friday night. How that immense crowd did root for their favorite team! Lake Worth school was over almost en masse. And we won, 25 to 7.

Naples on the Gulf of Mexico proved to be an ideal spot for the holding of the fall session of the Florida Press Association. The Collier County Press boys proved ideal hosts and everyone present sure had a pleasant and delightful stay at the Beach hotel and at the ocean front, where there was boating, bathing and fishing. The banquet was par excellent. Golfers found an ideal course for their play.

When Belle Glade forces get to working together on any project they put things across, as was demonstrated by the Legion's Armistice Day program. Yes sir, that sure was some big day for Belle Glade. The mass of visitors seemed to be well pleased with their visit.

Naples down in Collier County is recognized as one of the main commercial fishing spots on the entire Gulf of Mexico. Here millions of tons of ocean fish are netted each year by the big fleet which operates out of that port. This sort was found and erected in 1885 by Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky., as a prize hunting and fishing preserve. The city is taking on new life and growing in building and business rapidly. Some mighty fine homes down that way.

They say there is nothing new these days. Well Naples on Armistice Day pulled a new one in holding a swamp buggy parade and race. Some of those hunting outfits represented plenty of money, and all delisted out for a woods trip, created a lot of interest in newspaper men in convention there. The race was also unique and created a lot of excitement as they went through their paces.

If one makes a trip down in the Sunland section of Collier County to the Humble Oil field, they will see topography and industrial progress which they will never forget. It is rugged down there. A train load of oil is shipped out by rail each day to Savannah for processing.

There'll be a new college yell in Florida ere long. The state fire college at Ocala got its first financial boost from the state when the cabinet approved spending $21,700 to help hire the first two instructors, and the smoke-exits' instructional unit under way at Ocala, where county fair building have been donated. Young firemen from all over Florida will be sent to school there to learn the newest methods of putting out the flames—and of preventing flames before they get started.

W. H. Barnett, Jacksonville, chairman of the trustees, including Chief Earl Levy of Tallahassee and Chief Tom Sexton of Ocala. The college was authorized by the Legislature, with Ferris Bryant of Marion county leading the promotional drive. Belle Glade firemen are eligible to attend this college when opened.

This time of the year our small and inadequate city jail becomes as crowded as a henhouse's nest, and bedding and bedding problems become acute. Prisoners held to work out times on streets, don't get much rest or sleep. To correct this situation, a barracks will be operated for them over on the water works plant grounds. New beds have been installed, equipment for cooking supplied, and meals will be served there. Non-working jail prisoners were getting favors over the working men, and the latter made a howl, that they could not do a good day's work without the comfort of sleep and regular meals. The Commission recognized their claim, and ordered the barracks to be opened up again.

Rene Team Eat Big Barbecue Meal With American Legion Boys

The American Legion included the football game as part of its Armistice Day program, so extended an invitation to the players of both the Golden Ram and Trojan teams to be their guests for a barbecue dinner after the game.

However, the manager of the Trojans had arranged dinner at Billy's cafe before the local invitation had been tendered, so that bunch missed the barbecue treat.

However, the Rams came down in force, and certainly received heaping plates of food, in view of the fact that they had brought great honor to the school by proving themselves winners. The cooks stated that those Rams boys sure did have a healthy appetite, after that strenuous game.

Mah Shrine Plans For Annual North-South Football Contest

Each Christmas Eve Mah Shrine, of Miami, in which many Glades men hold affiliation, stage a benefit football game, in which track north and south high schools contest. Preparation activities are now at work.

The management has assigned a block of 250 tickets for Glades people, which are in the hands of W. P. Risk, as the distribution agent. A lot of our fans present to see this contest over the New Year's game.

Glades Students At Tallahassee State Out Reasonable Plea

Dear "Judge" Gledhill, We, the Belle Glade High School Alumni, will appreciate your cooperation in publishing for us in the Belle Glade Herald the following data:

Can you who are at home imagine how disappointing it would be to miss the traditional Pahoehoe-Belle Glade Football Game? If you can, then stop a minute and think how disappointed we, the B.G.H.S. Alumni, are because we miss it every year!

There are a few of us who are at schools not so distant to prevent us from being there, that is if we break all speed limits and perhaps cut a few classes. But the majority of us just can not get there by 8:00 Wednesday night when we have classes until 3:00 Wednesday afternoon.

All of the larger high schools have their Thanksgiving game on Thursday and this gives the Alumni plenty of time to get there even if they go to school in Tim-buck-to! Why can't B.G.H.S. start now this same tradition? We know—we've heard all the arguments against such a game—"The boys want to eat a big Thanksgiving dinner. They want to go to the woods, etc." but don't you boys realize that in a few years you too will be alumni and will hate to miss the game as much as we do now.

Can't you do something about this. Desperately we plead with you to consider our recommendation of having the annual Pahoehoe-Belle Glade Game on Thanksgiving Night. Please don't let us down.

Thanksgiving

THIS MONTH WE CELEBRATE a day inaugurated by our forefathers to give thanks for the harvest, wrested from a hostile land at the sweat of their brows and often the risk of their lives.

We in the insurance business know of thanksgiving days which come to some every day in the year. They are the people who, with worldly possessions damaged or destroyed, have been saved from financial loss or even ruin by the blessing of insurance.

They are the fragile people who have had the foreboding to guard themselves against the hostile elements and the other hazards which threaten our daily existence, against which our forefathers fought and had no such protection.

Yes, we have many things to be thankful for in this great country of ours — and one of them is the institution of insurance.

He notified Sheriff John Kirk and soon that official had an investigating crew at the line.

The man was apparently around 30 years of age, but no deceased. The man's shoes were missing and his clothing of a good quality. He had a tattoo across the right arm which read

"Mother." In a pencil reading "Terry." A man wearing a white shirt, grey trousers, green and white tie and socks, was 3 feet and 10 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds.

The body was held at a West Palm Beach mortuary, in hopes of making identity, but to date no information has been secured to set up who and from where he came.

The canal was dragged for quite a distance both ways from the spot where the body was located, hoping to find an auto or other clues, but nothing developed.
